

Rachel Foote

Senior Director, Conference Center and Education

Rachel Foote is responsible for Interact for Health's Conference Center and Learning Center. She coordinates and manages all Learning Center activities and educational programs including sustainability consultations for grantees, BoardSource webinars, educational workshops and events, and collaborative programming with our community partners. She also manages the Conference Center's marketing, scheduling, and coordination and execution of functions held by Interact for Health, its grantees and other nonprofit community organizations.

Rachel previously worked as the Management Service Assistant at The Health Foundation of Greater Cincinnati, and as a co-manager for Kroger after completing the extensive Kroger Management Training Program and as a database manager intern at Quest Communications.

Rachel has completed the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber's yearlong C-Change Leadership Development Program (2014) and United Way's Board Orientation Leadership Development Program (2015).

Outside the office, Rachel spends her time running the trails at Ault Park, volunteering as a board member for the Center for Respite Care and Corporation for Findlay Market, and spending time with her family.

She holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Miami University.
